

Cañon City Geology Club
January 12, 2015

Dear CCGC Members:

Due to icy weather and the cancellation of the January CCGC meeting, we will have two speakers for our February 9th program. Please note the change in times:

6:00 - 6:30 pm Business meeting

6:30 - 7:15 pm Steve Wolfe

"Geology of the Cañon City Embayment and the Surrounding Community"

15 minute break

7:30 - 8:15 pm David Camerlo

"Clays: The Hardworking Minerals"

Though Steve Wolfe has just retired from many years of teaching and administration work in the Florence school system, he wrote his Masters thesis on "The Natural History of Fremont County". He now has time to devote to his love of geology. Steve will discuss the geologic and major happenings that resulted in the outcrops, landforms, and natural resources of our area.

David Camerlo has spent his lifetime studying and nurturing his love of high fired ceramics and the complex geology and mineralization of the Colorado front range. He works mainly in stoneware made exclusively with local Fremont and Custer County clays and minerals, and he remains the only potter in Colorado and one of only a few in North America to do so. David will discuss the clays of Fremont County.
